

aisee kirpaa mohi karahu

|                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                           |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| ibl mvl umhl w 5 ] (828-4)                                                                                | bilaaval mehlaa 5.                                                                                                  | Bilaaval, Fifth Mehl:                                                                                                                                                     |
| Abs ikrpw mih krhu]                                                                                       | aisee kirpaa mohi karahu.                                                                                           | Bless me with such mercy, Lord,                                                                                                                                           |
| snh crx hmromQw nh drsuqin Dlr prhu]1] rhau]                                                          | san teh charan hamaaro maathaanain daras tan Dhoor parahu.   1  rahaa-o.        | that my forehead may touch the feet of the Saints, and my eyes may behold the Blessed Vision of their Darshan, and my body may fall at the dust of their feet.   1  Pause |
| gur ko sabad mayrai hee-araibaasai har naamaa man sangDharahu .                     | gur ko sabad mayrai hee-araibaasai har naamaa man sangDharahu .                               | May the Word of the Guru's Shabad abide within my heart, and the Lord's Name be enshrined within my mind.                                                                 |
| qskr pte invirhu Tukir sgl oBrmw him j rhu]1]                                                         | taskar panch nivaarahu thaakursaglo bharmaa hom jarahu.   1                                       | Drive out the five thieves, O my Lord and Master, and let my doubts all burn like incense.   1                                                                            |
| jo tum <sup>H</sup> karahu so-ee bhal maanaibhaavan dubiDhaa door tarahu. | jo tum <sup>H</sup> karahu so-ee bhal maanaibhaavan dubiDhaa door tarahu.           | Whatever You do, I accept as good; I have driven out the sense of duality.                                                                                                |
| naank kypB qm hl dsgy satsigI ymih aDrhu]2]3]119]                                                     | naanak kay parab h tum hee daataysat sang lay mohi u Dhruhu .  2  3  119 | You are Nanak's God, the Great Giver; in the Congregation of the Saints, emancipate me.   2  3  119                                                                       |