

aisay kaahay bhool paray

ibI wvI umhI w 5 ] (823-10)	bilaaval mehlaa 5.	Bilaaval, Fifth Mehl:
A'sy kwhy BII pry ]	aisay kaahay bhool paray.	Why do you wander in delusion like this?
krih krwih m'kir p'vih p'kq sq' sdw s'lg hry ]1] rh'au ]	karahi karaaveh mookar paavahi pay kh at sunat sadaa sang haray.   1   rahaa-o.	You act, and incite others to act, and then deny it. The Lord is always with you; He sees and hears everything.   1  Pause k'ic ibh'Jn k'ic'n C'rfn b'ri s'lg h'gu s'j n iq'Awig Kry ]	kaach bihaa j han kanchan ch haadan bairee sang hayt saajan ti-aag kh aray.	You purchase glass, and discard gold; you are in love with your enemy, while you renounce your true friend.
h'wnu karw Anh'wnu mITw ibiKAw mih I ptwie j ry ]1]	hovan ka-uraa anhovan meethaa bik hi -aa meh laptaa-ay jaray.   1	That which exists, seems bitter; that which does not exist, seems sweet to you. Engrossed in corruption, you are burning away.   1
AID k'p mih pirE prwnI Brm g'bw'r mh b'ID pry ]	an Dh koop meh pari-o paraanee bh aram gubaar moh ban Dh paray.	The mortal has fallen into the deep, dark pit, and is entangled in the darkness of doubt, and the bondage of emotional attachment.
khun'nk pB hq dieA'w'w guru BytYk'wFYbwh Pry ]2]10]96]	kaho naanak parabh hot da-i-aaraa gur bh aytai kaadh'ai baah faray.   2  10  96	Says Nanak, when God becomes merciful, one meets with the Guru, who takes him by the arm, and lifts him out.   2  10  96