

gobind gobind gobind sang naamday-o man leenaa

mhl 5] (487-16)	mehlaa 5.	Fifth Mehl:
gōbṁṁ gōbṁṁ gōbṁṁ sllg nwmḁjau mnu l lxw]	gobind gobind gobind sang naamday-o man leenaa.	Naam Dayv's mind was absorbed into God, Gobind, Gobind, Gobind.
AwF dnm ko ClprohieE l wKlxw]1] rhwau]	aadh daam ko chheepro ho-i-o laakheena. 1 rahaa-o.	The calico-printer, worth half a shell, became worth millions. 1 Pause bnnw qnnw iqAwig kYplliq crn kblrw]	bunnaa tannaa ti-aag kai pareet charan kabeeraa.	Abandoning weaving and stretching thread, Kabeer enshrined love for the Lord's lotus feet.
nlc kl w j d whrw BieE gnIX ghlrw]1]	neech kulaa jolaaharaa bha-i-o guneey gaheeraa. 1	A weaver from a lowly family, he became an ocean of excellence. 1 rivḁsuFwḁw Fr nliq iqin iqAwgl mwieAw]	ravidaas dhuvantaa dhor neet tin ti-aagee maa-i-aa.	Ravi Daas, who used to carry dead cows every day, renounced the world of Maya.
prgtu hAw swDsllg hir drsnu pwieAw]2]	pargat ho-aa saaDhsang har darsan paa-i-aa. 2	He became famous in the Saadh Sangat, the Company of the Holy, and obtained the Blessed Vision of the Lord's Darshan. 2 shunwel bḁkwrIAw Ehu Gir Gir sinAw]	sain naa-ee butkaaree-aa oh ghar ghar suni-aa.	Sain, the barber, the village drudge, became famous in each and every house.
ihrdyvisAw pwrbhmḁBgqḁ mih ginAw]3]	hirday vasi-aa paarbarahm bhagtaa meh gani-aa. 3	The Supreme Lord God dwelled in his heart, and he was counted among the devotees. 3 ieh ibiD sin kYj wtro aiT Bgql l wgw]	ih biDh sun kai jaatro uth bhagtee laagaa.	Hearing this, Dhanna the Jaat applied himself to devotional worship.
iml yḁḁik gswelAw Dhw vfBwḁw]4]2]	milay partakh gusaa-ee-aa Dhanna vadbhaagaa. 4 2	The Lord of the Universe met him personally; Dhanna was so very blessed. 4 2